

1st Annual
Kids & Veterans Charity Event
2015

April 24, 2015 from 5pm to close at the Enterprise Country Club in Enterprise, AL.

“Thankful, that is what we feel when it comes to the support we have witnessed through Operation Once in a Lifetime, Troy & Theodora Polamalu, and Brett Kesiel. They all have given so much to our military and kids that we were inspired to give back too.” - Team ADDO

Team ADDO

We are veterans wanting to help other veterans and their families in need. James Boggs, John & Tabitha Gressard, and Tommy Henderson deployed to Southern Afghanistan together in 2012. During that time, a friendship and bond was born from common interests and experiences. Bound by a love of country and family, we began our search for ways to give back, inspire, and make a positive and lasting impression on our communities.

Named after Theodora Polamalu's maternal grandfather who fought in WWII, The Harry Panos Fund for Veterans, a fund of the Pittsburgh Foundation, is dedicated to helping those who bravely served our country in foreign wars. During WWII, Harry Panos served as an artilleryman in the battles of Okinawa and Saipan. The stories of what he endured during those times are an inspiration to both Troy and Theodora.

Troy became interested in helping veterans of Iraq and Afghanistan in 2006, after he had visited wounded soldiers at Walter Reed Hospital. He was inspired by the resiliency of a young woman, of about 18 or 19 years old, who had lost her limbs in combat in Iraq. The fund will focus on assisting US veterans of foreign wars, who are currently dealing with health issues and/or financial problems.

The one goal that unites us all: transforming the lives of children through science and compassion.

What enables us to deliver world-class care is a world-class culture. Our culture is what sets the hospital apart and creates a lasting impression of us in the community and in the hearts of our patients and their families. We've found that the best way to help continue, grow and pass on our culture is by focusing on our vision, mission and five key core values.

- Quality and Safety
- Dignity and Respect
- Caring and Listening
- Responsibility and Integrity
- Excellence and Innovation
